

PILGRIM PRESCHOOL INFORMATION

Occupying only a few hours of a child's week, preschool education is planned as a supplement to a child's home experience, not as a substitute for it. Home and preschool should work cooperatively to meet the young child's needs. At Pilgrim Preschool we strive to help each child learn while building happy trustful relationships with peers and adults while growing in independence.

Activities are designed to promote the development of the whole child. Days are planned around themes using lessons and materials which are concrete and invite children to learn by playing and asking questions. Activities include language and reading skills and the acquisition of math concepts. Science lessons which are built on the children's innate curiosity help promote divergent thinking. Art, music and dramatic play provide opportunities for self-expression. Games and outdoor activities help develop small and large motor skills. Throughout the day the children are working on social skills.
